Introduction

This Directory, issued by the National Criminal Justice Reference Service (NCJRS), is part of the continuing effort by the National Institute of Justice to foster the exchange of information and to open channels of communication among those who have an interest in the field of criminal justice. By providing a reference tool such as this Directory, NCJRS makes known to all who are concerned with law enforcement and the criminal justice system the available resources and services of many agencies. Criminal justice professionals now have a centralized listing of services at their command to assist them as they address the challenges of our changing society.

NCJRS published the first edition of the Directory of Criminal Justice Information Sources in 1977. It was based on responses to questionnaires distributed during 1976 to approximately 2,000 agencies and research organizations. This fourth edition represents an attempt to update previous editions and is based on a 1981 survey of approximately 260 criminal justice agencies. Questionnaires were mailed to all the agencies listed in the 1979 edition as well as to other agencies identified by NCJRS staff.

Although every effort was made to contact known criminal justice information sources, this Directory should not be considered an exhaustive compilation. Because of editorial selection requirements, unanswered inquiries, incomplete questionnaires, and lack of information, some sources may have been excluded.

The agencies included feature such information resources as computerized literature search services, interlibrary loan programs, reference services, and technical assistance to criminal justice professionals. The organizations are listed in alphabetical order, and two indexes, by geographic location and criminal justice specialty, are provided to assist users. A list of the codes identifying areas of activity can be found on page 142.

As part of its continuing effort to provide up-to-date criminal justice information, NCJRS plans to publish biennial revisions of the Directory of Criminal Justice Information Sources. Criteria for agencies to be included in the next edition of the Directory are presented on page 139. Guidelines for completing a survey are provided on page 140, directly opposite a blank response form on page 141. If your agency meets the criteria and you would like it to be listed in the next edition, please complete the survey response form and mail it to:

Criteria for Selection

The following criteria are used to select organizations for inclusion in the Directory of Criminal Justice Information Sources.

1. Service area must be national or regional in scope.
2. Providing information must be a major component of the agency's function.
3. Agencies providing only consulting services, training, or technical assistance will not be considered.
4. Mail and telephone requests must be honored; users must not be required to visit the agency to obtain information.
5. Costs for services or membership must not be unduly restrictive or prohibitive in nature and must be specified on the agency survey response form.
6. Information resources of the agency must not be unduly limited or restricted in scope (e.g., self-developed materials).
7. Libraries with extensive special collections in criminal justice and law enforcement will be considered.
8. Agencies must have the capacity to respond to a large number of requests for information.

The purpose of the Directory is to facilitate access to criminal justice information. If an agency does not contribute to the fulfillment of that objective, NCJRS reserves the right to exclude it from the Directory.
